Top 3 Ice Cream Places

by Elizabeth Stratton

1. Twistee Treat – I. Love. Twistee Treat. For just a plain ice cream cone, this is the best place to head. There are more and more locations popping up so it is convenient (and for those lazy few, there is a drive-thru!). The ice cream is so thick and creamy, and they have a good range of flavors and cones. My go to is vanilla cake cone. Seriously, so good. It is also really inexpensive, which is always a plus. I will never stop going here for a good ol' ice cream cone.

2. Cold Stone Creamery – I don't really have to talk about this place, because who hasn't been here at least once? But... I will. For some really decadent ice cream with every mix in you can think of, Cold Stone is where you need to go. Basically, everything here is good. I will say, the sizes can be a bit insane, so just keep that in mind. I always always always get the birthday cake remix. OMG. The best thing I've ever eaten. No joke. is more pricey here, but considering all that comes in your ice cream, it is worth it.

3. Pink Berry – I was so excited when Pinkberry opened up in the Millenia Mall. Most of the time, instead of getting ice cream, I get frozen yogurt instead. I genuinely like the taste of yogurt better, but Pinkberry's is so smooth and such great quality. It isn't heavy like normal ice cream and I can eat it without feeling incredibly guilty. And the shop itself is so clean, so I don't worry about who and what has touched the toppings. I love the chocolate hazelnut flavor with some raspberries and strawberries on top. Mmmmm.
